Argument ends in shooting death.

A man died of gunshot wounds Saturday after an argument escalated into a shootout at a Whitehaven apartment complex, Memphis police said.

Charles Herod, 35, died at Methodist Healthcare South, said a homicide officer. The gunfight broke out shortly before 7 p.m. at the Graceland Manor Apartments near Raines and Airways, police said.

Police said Herod and another Herod knew were arguing at 2138 Liggins Court, a courtyard in the apartment complex. Both men lived in the neighborhood, a police officer said.

Herod was shot several times after he reportedly had fired at the other man and missed, the police said. Police also were investigating reports that a friend of Herod's also fired shots.

Handguns and possibly a shotgun were used, the police officer said. The homicide officer said police have identified a suspect but had no one in custody by late Saturday.
